INTRODUCTION

This Psychopomp course and manual is intended for IEMI students with 155-hour Reiki, Energy Medicine and Shamanic Healing training and associated personal practice.

The course first addresses the historical and cultural understanding of spirits and spirit attachments and respective treatments. After looking at the Psychopomp practitioner’s skills and requirements, we focus on the nature of the spirit world, in relation to dimensions and states of consciousness, beliefs system and concepts of reincarnation, karma, the afterlife and diverse aspects of the realm of the soul including our contemporary views and treatment of attachment as a personality disorder.

The discussion then brings us to the influences of thought forms as tulpas and egregores some hidden in ancestral vows and contracts; and the manner of disposing of such thought forms.

Spirit classification and communication with spirits set the stage for the hands-on part of the class. We take in consideration then the ability of the client, for the practitioner to choose the appropriate psychopomp techniques that are practiced in this course.

Learning to identify the presence of a spirit in someone or in a location brings us to explore the law of resonance and attraction as well as partnership with high vibrational helpers.

The practice of psychopomp starts with preparation and protection and is followed by assisting the dying in their transition with an understanding of the dying process. Personal practices of the death process are presented followed by exercises to for the Death and Psychopomp Doula including energetic hands-on healing and rituals to help not only the dying but their loved ones.

We continue the practice of Psychopomp for groups and individual; Psychopomp for hauntings and space clearing is next. We conclude with Psychopomp hygiene, ethics and personal experiences as well as a proof of spirit pictorial, and end with advice to follow your own path.
